

Minors, Certifications and Concentrations Available for RCBC 3+1 Students

As you plan your courses for your bachelor's degree, consider the addition of a minor, concentration or certificate of undergraduate study (CUGS). Students may use their electives to pursue the following programs, with all required courses available on the ground in Mount Laurel and/or online*:

Concentrations

A concentration provides credentialing for students completing four courses in an area related to their major.

Cyber Security Concentration for Computing and Informatics Students Only (12 credits)

Certificate of Undergraduate Study

A certificate of undergraduate study provides credentialing for students completing a four-course area of study. Completion of the CUGS is noted on student transcripts.

Certificate of Undergraduate Study in Professional Communication (12 credits)

Certificate of Undergraduate Study in Ethics (12 credits)

Minors

A minor is a secondary subject that typically requires 18 to 21 credits. A minor may allow a student to explore another area of interest, develop knowledge related to their primary major or specialize in a certain field.

Minor in Ethics (18 credits)

Minor in Law and Justice (21 credits)

Minor in Philosophy and Religion (18 credits)

Minor in Philosophy (18 credits)- If student takes PHI 240 at RCBC

Minor in Psychology (18 credits)

Please speak with the Rowan Relations Office for more details.

Not all courses will be available each semester and/or in the desired format. Students are encouraged to speak with their Academic Advisor about their plan of study.*
